END OF SPANISH WAR LOOKED FOR
AT ANY MOMENT

Spanish Government Agrees
To Offer Virtual Surrender
To Franco

GUARANTEE OF IMMUNITY FROM REPRISALS IS GIVEN

Nationalists Would Likewise Assure Freedom From Italy And Germany

PARIS, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The end of the long Spanish civil war appeared to be only a matter of hours tonight.
The Spanish government, officials of the Madrid regime said, has agreed to offer its virtual surrender.

The capitulation to the nationalist government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco will be called an "armistice," according to the officials, who declared it might go into effect late tonight or tomorrow.

Only unforeseen resistance by government followers, they said, could postpone the end.

The agreement to capitulate was said to have been given by government Premier Juan Negrin after written guarantees had reached the British government from Franco.

These guarantees were said to be assurances that there would not be reprisals against Spanish government leaders. Nationalist authorities likewise would guarantee Spain's freedom from German and Italian domination, it was stated.

The assurances, largely meeting
Negrin's terms for government surrender, were said to have been given by Franco apart from negotiations in Britain and France for recognition of the nationalist regime, expected Monday.

It was understood that the time for the "armistice" to become effective was being discussed between the British government, the Spanish ambassador to London, and representatives of Franco's cabinet. The peace was said to have been proposed by Britain.

(Spanish government officials in London disclaimed knowledge of any plan.)

LEADERS FAVOR HOPKINS' PLAN

Several Financial Spokesmen,
However, 'Keeping Fingers Crossed'

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Financial and industrial leaders who discussed Secretary of Commerce Hopkins' reorganization program today for the most part expressed approval, but several said they were "keeping their fingers crossed."

Some sample reactions:

"Utilities. Most optimistic as a group, but enthusiastic predictions generally qualified on the condition that the program have President Roosevelt's continued support."

Railroads: Mildly optimistic; rail problems so complex that even unqualified government cooperation would not help some greatly.

Stock market: Buoyant; strongest opening of the month; but week-end lightening of accounts shaded the day's best gains and the close was generally fractions to $1 a share above yesterday. On Friday the market had its biggest rise since November 9, in anticipation of Secretary Hopkins' speech last night.

Banks: Approval of the "change in emphasis"; skepticism over the ability of the Hopkins program because of its "limited scope", even if fully and completely implemented.

LOUISIANA MEN TO ATTEND RIVER MEET

CAMDEN, Ark., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Secretary W. C. McClure of the Arkansas Flood Control commission announced today that a group of Louisiana officials would come to Little Rock Monday for a series of conferences on waterway development.

He said that the party would be headed by Wade O. Martin, chairman of the Louisiana flood control and navigation commission.

W. F. Bradford, Camden, president of the Ouachita Valley association, will return from Washington Sunday and report at the Little Rock conferences on the status of flood control legislation in congress.

Governor Carl E. Bailey has invited the heads of 18 state departments to attend a conference at the state capitol Monday on proposed flood control and power development in the Ouachita river valley. He designated L. A.
Henry, engineer-director of the state planning board, as coordinator for the collection of data on the proposed projects.

The letters were made public at temporal White House offices here
while the president spent his seventh day at sea on the cruiser Houston in the vicinity of the annual fleet maneuvers.

Their timing was regarded in official circles as especially significant

SHERIFF SOLVES TWO BURGLARIES

Two Negroes Confess Entering Haddad Store And Ster-lington Grocery

Solution of the burglary of Haddad Brothers dry goods store and the Sterlington grocery, both located in the same building at Sterlington, and the burglary of two Monroe business houses, was announced last night by Sheriff Milton Coverdale following the arrest of two Monroe negroes.

The negroes, Willie Hedgeman, 23,
and Eugene Gregg, alias Eugene Gray, 26, were arrested Friday night by Sheriff Coverdale and Deputies Frank Cline and Clyde Mitchell at a house in the rear of 1412 Short Washington street.

Sheriff Coverdale said the negroes confessed burglarizing the Sterlington establishments last Wednesday night, and, when Chief of Police Frank V.
Reitzel was called in to interrogate the negroes in regard to some recent burglaries here, Hedgeman admitted breaking into Ware's Drug store, 2217
DeSiard street, on the night of January 28, and also burglarizing E.
S. Tucker's grocery, 2301 DeSiard street, on February 2.

Suit to have the 30-year-old will probated had been filed by legatees later eliminated, including the town of Montgomery, La., the city of Plettenburg, Germany, Paul Hessmer, of Long Island, N. Y., and numerous other persons and institutions.

Judge O'Neal held that an old-graphic note written by Edenberg on February 1, 1919, voided the will and that he died intestate.

Edenberg, who died in Shreveport
May 14, 1926, had written the controversial invalidation of his will on a receipt for the will given him on June 30, 1908, when he left the document in custody of the St. Louis Union Trust company. The statement on the receipt read:

"The will and testament referred to above is hereby declared void. Wm.
Edenberg."

It was the claim of plaintiffs under the suit that the olograph was not "written, dated and signed in the handwriting of the deceased as required by law." Judge O'Neal held that it was.

The estate had been, for the most part, in the hands of Mrs. Edenberg, the 78-year-old widow, since the railroad magnate's death.

Plaintiffs in the present suit included:

Paul Hessmer, Long Island, N. Y.; Reinhold Hessmer, Mrs. Emilie Hess-mer, Harmer, Clara Hessmer, Hans Pauls and Fritz Hessmer, all residents of Solingen, Germany, who filed the suit.

Roosevelt Makes Dramatic Appeal To Labor For Peace

By D. Harold Oliver
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt in a dramatic plea for industrial recovery today asked the long struggling C. I. O. and A. F. of L. camps to name a committee to negotiate an early peace.

In virtually identical letters to John L. Lewis, chairman of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, he declared:
"Labor faces a challenge in finding its own divided into opposing camps, but I am sure that labor can and will meet this challenge with understanding and good will."

The letters were made public at temporal White House offices here
while the president spent his seventh
day at sea on the cruiser Houston in the vicinity of the annual fleet maneuvers.

He said that the American people
sincerely hoped that a "constructive negotiation" would be reached.

Their timing was regarded in official circles as especially significant

CALCULATIONS OF REFUGEES' GROUP UPSET BY ORDER

Police Demand Throws Consternation Into Ranks Of Germany's Semitics

SEE NO CHANCE TO GET AS MANY VISAS AS REQUIRED

Expect Only Tragedy After Meeting Quota For First Few Days

By Louis P. Lochner

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—(AP)—A new, intensive drive to make Germany free of Jews will begin Monday.

The Jewish community in Berlin received orders from the police to produce daily the names of 100 Jews who then will be given two weeks' notice to leave the country.

As far as could be learned, Berlin is the first district in which a daily quota of emigrants is fixed arbitrarily.
Depending upon its success, it may be assumed that the system will be applied throughout the nation.

The police notice threw consternation into the ranks of the Jews.

They had believed that the efforts of George Rublee as director of the intergovernmental refugee committee to bring about systematic and orderly elimination over an extended period would be crowned with success.

After Rublee's departure from Berlin, the belief was general in Jewish circles that Germany would give every Jew ample time to settle his affairs on the assurance of the refugee committee that a berth would be found for him somehow and somewhere abroad.

Rublee, a native of Madison, Wis.,
and two American aides, negotiated on the Jewish problem in Berlin from January 10 to February 2.

(Subsequently he presented a German plan to the refugee committee

SAYS SENATE TO OKAY GUAM ITEM

Lee Voices View House Vote
Had 'Bad Psychological Effect'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—A prediction that the senate would reverse the house's action and authorize $300,000 in naval improvements at the island of Guam came from Senator Lewis, Democrat, Illinois, today

as the senate military committee gave its approval to the $350,000,000 army and air corps expansion bill.

Lewis, veteran member of both the foreign relations and military committees, said that if he judged the temper of the senate correctly, "it will put back the Guam item and announce that it is our property and we are merely fencing it."

Senator Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, another member of the military committee, said he thought the house vote against the Guam improvements had had a "bad psychological effect" in the orient and that the item should be put back in the naval base bill.

The house vote against a proposition to dredge the Guam harbor for seaplane lanes and make over improvements was interpreted in most quarters as having been influenced by arguments that Japan would view this as a provocative step.

Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, who has been extremely critical of Japan's course in China, said he was inclined to support the house action. Senator Clark, Democrat Missouri, said he would oppose restoration of the Guam item and predicted that the senate would reject any

WASHINGON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—A proposed formula for settlement of the controversy arising from Mexico's seizure of American-owned oil lands has been drafted. Informed persons said today, and will be discussed with the Mexican government in Mexico City next week.

The basis of the proposal was said to be for the Mexican government to retain title to the properties, but make a long-term contract for their operation by the oil companies formerly owning them.

The proposed solution was drafted by the oil companies and the negotiations will be carried on by their representatives. It was understood, however, that officials of this government had been consulted.

One informant said the plan had been received study by President Roosevelt

Ambassador Francisco Castillo Najarra.

3 NEGROES HELD FOR COW THEFT

Suspects Admit Butchering
And Selling Beef, Sheriff
Coverdale Says

Three Monroe negroes, charged with larceny of a cow from E. N. Faulk in Ward nine, were being held in the Ouachita parish jail here last night, it was announced by Sheriff Milton Coverdale.

The negroes, James Steele, 20; Eddie Newman, 18; and George Washington, 19, have confessed feeding the cow. Sheriff Coverdale said, Steele and Newman were arrested by members of the sheriff's department, while Washington was arrested by Police Captain J. D. Bushy of the Monroe police department.

The cow was allegedly stolen on February 14.

According to the negroes' alleged confession they left Monroe on the night of February 13 in an automobile driven by another negro who left them on the east bank of the Ouachita river near Bosco.

The E. N. Faulk farm is located on the west bank of the river, almost opposite Bosco, so the negroes were said to have crossed the river in a boat, caught and killed a cow, and loaded the butchered beef into the boat and paddled back across the river.

About 4:30 a.m. on February 14 they were again met by the unidentified negro driving the automobile who returned the three negroes with the butchered cow to Monroe. The meat was sold to a negro merchant living on Pine street.

WILD GESEES RETURN TO NORTH COUNTRY

Thousands of wild geese, filling the skies with their plaintive "honk-honk" calls, winged their way over Monroe throughout Friday night, leaving the southern marshes, lakes and streams several weeks earlier than usual for their flight back to the north country.

The earlier return of the geese to the north indicates an early spring, according to sportsmen and nature students.

Many local citizens, hearing the calls of the geese Friday night and Saturday morning before daylight, formed the opinion that the geese were flying southward to escape a cold wave in the north, and several citizens were heard to declare, in positive terms, that they distinctly heard several flocks flying from the north to the south. These residents were correct in one respect—they did hear geese flying southward—but this was because they were confused by the lights of the city and circled back in a southerly direction to regain their bearings.

A lone goose, lost from its flock, and flying low, circled about Arkansas avenue for more than a half-hour before regaining its bearings and continuing its northward flight.

CHAPTER XVI
For a moment Janet thought that Cynthia must have seen her on the hotel veranda last night, and come to talk to her about that.

But Cynthia began abruptly, twisting her gloves between her slim fingers, "It's about the house, Jan. It's lovely, of course, but I shouldn't want it if I weren't sure it was all right with you."

"The house?" Janet echoed vaguely. "Tim called me at noon, and said Lance was willing to sell it to him... Tim wants to go to housekeeping, you know. Isn't that quaint? And—but, Jan, you don't mean Lance didn't mention it to you first?"

"There's no reason why he should," Janet said. "You see, that wasn't just a 'postment party' last night, Cyn. Lance and I aren't going to be married at all."

"So that's why Aunt Mary looked as if she'd just swallowed the cream," Cynthia said after a silence that Jan thought would never end. "I wonder—Jan, should you mind telling me why the engagement was broken?"

"Oh," Janet said, evading Cynthia's direct violet gaze, "because of this and that... Getting married to Lance just began to seem—not such a good idea, after all."

But Cynthia, the gloves she had been playing with suddenly very still in her hands, said with one of her strange flashes of intuition, "So you've found out, too—how little he really matters, I mean. Oh, Jan... And it hurts terribly, doesn't it? I thought, just at first, that it must be worse than seeing someone die... But how did you—Janet, it wasn't you—the hotel porch last night, was it? I heard someone running."

"Yes," Janet admitted simply. "I was looking for you, Cyn. I went away as soon as I could."

"I'm sorry, Jan—truly I am." Cynthia spoke with a simple sincerity she seldom used. "I would have done anything to keep you from hearing. The only reason he thinks he wants me is because—someone else has me."

"Don't worry, Cyn. There were other reasons—more than you can guess. And now that I've had time to think, I'm—well, not exactly cheering about it, of course, but since the break was bound to come, I'm glad it happened before it was too late."

Cynthia said, "Janet, I think I'll tell Tim I don't want the house."

"No, please, Cyn. It doesn't mean anything to me now, really. It's just—part of something that's behind me."

"You're sure?"

"Please believe me, Cyn, I am."

"Well, then," Cynthia stood up.

"I promised to call Tim in time for Lance to take us up to look the house over this afternoon."

Halfway to the door she paused and came back.

"I know you don't want to talk about it, Jan," she said with a gentleness that touched Janet—as Cynthia's rare moments of tenderness always did—more keenly than kindness from anyone else. "I just want to say—it won't hurt like this forever. It's no use to tell you that now, of course. But it won't, I know."

So Cynthia was to have the white house over which she and Lance had spent so many enchanted hours. In spite of her assurance to Cynthia, Janet found that it did matter terribly.

Young as Janet was, she realized that if she were to hold herself steady, she must keep in touch with the life she had always known. So she went about a good deal during the next few weeks.

From the beginning she understood that her broken engagement—if not actually the reason for it—was already an accepted fact among her acquaintances. Most of them skirted the subject with an offhand jocularity which they evidently believed made the situation easier for her, and perhaps it did. But beneath the harmless jests about her fickleness, her sensitive pride sometimes detected pity, and writhed under it.

During those first few weeks she saw Lance only a few times—once in a hotel dining room with an expensively dressed woman of uncertain age, and once, coming out of a theater alone.

Cynthia and Timothy Benton had dashed off again almost immediately on a European trip which was to keep them abroad until the first of the year, when the new house would be ready for them. Aunt Mary and Janet had occasional sketchy scrawls from Cynthia, but rarely knew exactly where she was to be at any given time.

MONROE (LA.) MORNING WORLD

PALACE STORE WILL BECOME MODERNISTIC

The main floor of the Palace store is undergoing a complete reconstruction and when present operations are completed, will present a striking modernistic appearance such as has never before been seen in a Monroe department store.

Woodwork of showcases is being completely revamped through the use of prima-vera wood which is termed by some "white mahogany," and which is a product imported from central America. Show cases are being cut down a fraction of a foot each and new broad aisles are to be run through the store, which will enable one to obtain an unobstructed view of all the 15 departments at a glance, said Sig Masur, general store manager.

Regulations governing the enlistment of former soldiers in the regular army reserve have been changed to allow the enlistment of married applicants. The requirement that applicants must have been out of the service less than three years has also been removed so as to allow the enlistment of former soldiers under 36 years of age, regardless of the length of time since their last discharge.

Broad aisles will run from the main entrance to the elevator at the rear of the store room and there will be another broad aisle running from the front to the back of the store, together with several cross aisles.

With the exception of two departments, that of the shoe department and the toiletry department, all departments have been given a changed location. The shoe department will have new chairs and new carpeting.

Mr. Masur said that it will require about 10 days to complete all changes.

An army recruiting station has been established in room No. 415, postoffice building, Shreveport, for the convenience of former soldiers residing in north Louisiana who desire enlistment in this branch of national defense.

MAJOR BELL TO RECEIVE APPLICATIONS HERE FOR REGULAR ARMY RESERVE

RUSTON, La., Feb. 25.—(Special)—Major Leigh Bell, army reserve instructor with district headquarters at Shreveport, will be in Monroe Monday afternoon for the purpose of interviewing applicants for the regular army reserve. Major Bell may be contacted at Hotel Virginia between 3 and 5 p.m.

Regulations governing the enlistment of former soldiers in the regular army reserve have been changed to allow the enlistment of married applicants. The requirement that applicants must have been out of the service less than three years has also been removed so as to allow the enlistment of former soldiers under 36 years of age, regardless of the length of time since their last discharge.

The course, which will be conducted by the Tech department of agriculture, will combine discussions on the conservation of resources, the general economic condition of the south and the subject of chemistry, the latter being described as meaning "the putting of chemistry to work toward the development of such pursuits as industry and agriculture."

Under the new regulations, enlistments in the same grade as held at time of discharge from the regular army are authorized.

Reservists are compensated at the rate of $24 annually, payable every four months. Additional compensation of three dollars for each month of service in the regular army reserve, not to exceed $150, will be paid if the reservists are called to active duty. This can be done only if the president of the United States declares that a national emergency exists.

An army recruiting station has been established in room No. 415, postoffice building, Shreveport, for the convenience of former soldiers residing in north Louisiana who desire enlistment in this branch of national defense.

LABOR PLACEMENTS SHOWING INCREASE

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 25.—(Special)

Private and public placements made by offices of the Louisiana state employment service division of the department of labor totalled 41,802 during 1938, an increase of 26.5 per cent over 1937, State Labor Commissioner B. W. Cason announced today.

Placements in private industry totalled 30,747, a 34.2 per cent increase over 1937, and public employment accounted for 11,055, a 9.1 per cent increase over 1937, Commissioner Cason's report showed.

The course, which will be conducted by the Tech department of agriculture, will combine discussions on the conservation of resources, the general economic condition of the south and the subject of chemistry, the latter being described as meaning "the putting of chemistry to work toward the development of such pursuits as industry and agriculture."

The course will be the first of its kind to be offered in Louisiana, it was stated. State and federal soil conservation leaders are said to be supporting the Tech project. The course's importance is indicated by the findings of a committee appointed by President Roosevelt to report on the economic conditions of the south, it was pointed out.

Under the new regulations, enlistments in the same grade as held at time of discharge from the regular army are authorized.

Reservists are compensated at the rate of $24 annually, payable every four months. Additional compensation of three dollars for each month of service in the regular army reserve, not to exceed $150, will be paid if the reservists are called to active duty. This can be done only if the president of the United States declares that a national emergency exists.

An army recruiting station has been established in room No.

Fewer Youthful Criminals

The occasional reports of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, are always interesting and sometimes they are heartening, especially when they show, as they have so often in recent years, that kidnapers are ultimately brought to justice, that this fiendish crime is of less frequent occurrence, and that the nation's supply of important public enemies is about exhausted.

Even more hopefully inspiring is a batch of statistics, made public recently, showing that great progress is being made toward the solution of the problem of juvenile delinquency, the one most dangerous threat to the moral standards of the nation.

Mr. Hoover's report is more than interesting; it is vital. Seven years ago the most marked tendency toward crime was manifested at the age of seventeen. Within four years the age had been moved up to nineteen, while today it is twenty-one.

Not the least significant feature of the report is Mr. Hoover's explanation of the factors that have contributed toward this improvement. Perhaps the most important is the CCC, which has taken impoverished boys from the streets and the highways, given them work in a wholesome atmosphere and removed them from the path of temptation.

Since its organization, the CCC has inspired little but praise. It has contributed in incalculable measure to the development and conservation of natural resources; it has brought essential financial aid to thousands of homes. Above all else, however, it has helped to conserve and safeguard the young manhood of the nation.

Other factors in the improvement have been the Y. M. C. A. and many boys' clubs. Their work, through which youngsters are gradually being educated away from crime, is deserving of the highest praise.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN SAFE?

"School authorities too often feel that because they've never had a fire, they're never going to have one," writes T. Alfred Fleming of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, in the Kiwanis magazine. "This cruel fallacy is a menace to the lives of American school children, for actually there are five school fires a day in this country. We can not, unfortunately, eliminate all of them. But we can, by efficient fire drills, get our children out of burning buildings safely."

Most fire drills, Mr. Fleming observes, "are wretchedly inadequate; some actually dangerous." He describes one school in which, when the fire bell rang, downstairs pupils rushed upstairs to get their hats and coats from the cloakroom. A principal once proudly showed him a tubular-shoot escape in his modern school. The chute had locked doors at the bottom—and when the janitor was found after a 20-minute search, he admitted that he had lost the keys a year before! In another school, children had to stand on a windowsill and swing out three feet to reach the fire escape—and then drop 12 feet from it to the ground! And it is a quite general practice to leave crippled children in their seats during fire drills.

Mr. Fleming wishes to "convert every school official and parent to the Texas system." In that state, the study of fire hazards is included in all school curricula, and two fire drills a month are held in all schools under the direction of student committees. Various drill officers are appointed from the older pupils, and are charged with such specific duties as helping crippled children to escape, seeing that rooms are empty before doors are closed, checking on cloakroom and lavatories to see that they are vacant, and leading lines of children to safety. Here the Lone Star state has set an example that should be immediately followed by all other states. America has had enough of ghastly school fire disasters.

NEW BOARD MEMBER

On the board of directors of the Reo Motor company, sits a new member.

He is Guy Hack, for 25 years a machinist in the plant, and now president of the plant unit of the United Auto Workers.

Hack talked himself into the job. During recent organization proceedings in a Detroit court, he argued that the workers' interest in the company's future was so great that they ought to have a man on the board.

The directors said "All right." They left a vacancy for a labor man, and Hack was elected by the plant employees.

Now Hack is under criticism from his superiors in U. A. W. headquarters in Detroit. They say he can't be a union official and a company director at the same time. Hack says, yes, he can, because being a director doesn't give him the right to hire, fire, raise and dock.

Every experiment in the relationships between employees, managers, and owners of business should be welcome in these days.

Trial and error, the old reliable winnowing-outer, will tell whether this arrangement is valuable to employees and to the company and its owners.

That will be a better guide than pre-judgment based on theory. The career of Company Director Union President Hack will be well worth watching.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Having been given a green light and a pat on the back by congress, Martin Dies is all set to make his famous investigation bigger and better than ever before.

His committee is more experienced, it will have more time—and it will have $10,000 to spend. "We've got the outline," says Congressman Dies, "now we'll fill it in with hard facts." And he plans to begin with a quiet, systematic review of the whole field before holding any public hearings.

Leaning back in his chair and chewing hard on a cigar, the stocky Texan recalls that just two years ago he was roundly boozed when he moved for a congressional investigation of the sitdown strikes. He mustered only 118 votes and lost.

Sights An Americanism Wave

A few days ago only 35 congressmen voted against extending the life of his committee. Mr. Dies looks on the change as indicative of one of the greatest shifts of sentiment in American political history.

"People are sick and tired of European ideologies," he says. "They don't want communism, or nazism, or war, or any kind of notions from abroad. They want the traditional, fundamental Americanism—and any public men who don't recognize this trend are going to be on the outside looking in after 1940."

Out of this trend, he believes, will come a balanced program that will lead the country to its greatest period of prosperity.

"The present administration has done some wonderful things," he says. "But there is such a thing as an overdose. It's like medicine; you've got to let nature do nine-tenths of the healing. The field in which government can operate is limited; if government goes outside of that field it becomes an oppressor of the people."

"I believe in sane, practical progressivism. We have to stay between the reactionary on one side and the radical on the other. The fellow who has a slavish worship for the customs and traditions of the past is one danger; the fellow who's wild for change and doesn't consider the method by which the change is reached is another danger."

"We can't go back, of course. We shall never return to government by the organized minority of the money power, for instance—and we'll never submit to the organized minority of labor, either."

Fears The Semi-Communists

Congressman Dies readily admits that the actual number of Communist party members in this country is small; but he declares that at least ten million people belong to organizations which are to a greater or lesser extent dominated and directed by the Communists.

"Those people don't want a big party membership," he explains. "The Communist looks instead for people who have no program, who are wandering in a daze. He has a program, and he sells it to the dissatisfied bourgeoisie."

Complaints that his committee has spent too much time investigating communism and too little investigating nazism leave Mr. Dies cold. He sees these issues as simply two facets of the same thing.

One, he says, is national socialism; the other, international socialism. Both, he feels, stem from the notion that government ought to cure all evils, that the individual can't solve any problems for himself; and this, he adds, is a notion commonly shared by many modern liberals.

"I don't call those liberals liberals at all," he remarks.

He's A Busy Boy

The past year has been a tough one on Mr. Dies. He lost 25 pounds in weight, and has got so that he doesn't sleep well. His daily routine for months has been home-office, office-home; only twice in six months has he even gone to a movie, he says.

He has a wife and three sons, and in the old days he was a good bit of a family man; now, he says, his family hardly sees anything of him.

But he feels that the worst of it is over. He won the formal approval of congress by an overwhelming vote.

His committee now will have enough money so that he can spare himself some of the spade-work. From now on, he says, it will be going places.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—The current cycle of historical "superst" plus Hollywood's folly in training the public to demand absolute authenticity of detail, is giving studio art directors a headache. Consider, for example, the problems faced in the production of "The Man in the Iron Mask," now being filmed by Edward Small.

No period of history is better known than the reign of Louis XIV. The costume and "hand-props" must be correct—if not, every high school student who sees the picture will detect the fraud. Most of the action is laid in the palace at Versailles—the chief tourist attraction in France. Everyone who has visited Paris has taken time out for Versailles. Consequently, the backgrounds must be authentic. Small has hired cameramen in Paris to photograph the famous gardens, the princely rooms and the furnishings from every angle. Using those photographs, the picture's art director is faced with the job of re-creating them—and doing it within the picture's budget.

Being the screen's greatest actor doesn't affect Paul Muni's status as a husband. Today I had occasion to check a report that Paul and Mrs. Muni will vacation in New York when "Juarez" is completed. I asked one of his best friends for verification. "You can depend on it," he answered, "although I know Mr. Muni doesn't want to go. It's Mrs. Muni—she says they're going to make the trip. That makes it positive."

In feathering her own nest, Sonja Henie seems to have contributed quite a bit down to several others. Witness the troubles Warner Brothers had the other day when they tried to rent a local ice rink for skating scenes in "Hell's Kitchen." Two of the three listed as possibilities were not to be had "at any price." The third, after considerable argument, was finally leased—but only after the Warners agreed to do all their shooting between midnight and 9 a.m. And the owner of the rink kicked the studio so much money for that concession that they could have built their own rink on the lot for less. Three years ago, before Sonja made the world skate-conscious, the local ice palaces were starving for business; today the biggest one alone averages 1,500 paid admissions per day.

Personal observations: If there are flowers on the luncheon table, Shirley Temple is sure to try to rearrange them. Wallace Beery takes a bite of bread for every bite of other food. When the music gets hot, Binnie Barnes invariably starts humming under her breath. If you've read one of the books authored by Nigel Bruce's brother—Michael—and mentioned it in Nigel's hearing, you've made a friend for life. It will be a good many years before sob stories about Nancy Kelly are in order—to date the little lady produces a laugh a minute.

When Bela Lugosi orders dinner steak, he always specifies one pound, no more or less. How did I ever happen to forget Virginia Field when citing candidates for the best-turned ankle award? Anne Shirley has a trick knee—it's apt to slip out of joint and

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE GREATEST AMERICAN COLLEGE PRESIDENT—Eliphalet Nott (1773-1866), who has been termed the greatest American college president, was orphaned in early youth. In the summer of 1795 he entered Rhode Island College (Brown University), and passed the entrance, freshman, sophomore and junior examination in one day. He was told to return in the fall, for his final examination, as a result of which he was admitted to an honorary M. A. degree. Never having received a bachelor's degree, he became president of Union College in 1804, where he held for 52 years. He invented the first stove for burning anthracite coal, and secured a number of patents on heating apparatus through which he amassed a considerable fortune.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

For the peace of mind of that ferocious old von Clausewitz, it is perhaps just as well that he stalked off Valhalla long ago. To this great Prussian, idol of the military classics, war was grand opera. Countless plebes in many lands have labored over his strategy of mass attack, as guile and complication as a Ziegfeld revue. They have been taught that such tactic was somehow based on eternal and immutable laws of human combat. And now Clausewitz and all his legacy of fighting lore are being knocked into a cocked hat.

Captain B. H. Liddell Hart, of England, one of the world's leading military authorities, is one among several who have pinked the stuffed shirt of grandiose military tactics. He was a striping in the World War, 20 years old, just out of Cambridge, doubling in writing and fighting, a correspondent for a London newspaper. That he should have made the slightest dent on the cast-iron military mind of the day, particularly with a war on, when nobody listens to reason, is the miracle of history.

Captain Hart is in the news these days, insisting that a big army may be just the Primo Carnate of the battlefield, a push-over for a small, mobile, highly mechanized force. He is much franker than other Britishers, insisting that there is no use in pulling another European war unless they can get the U. S. A. in at the start. France and England couldn't lick the Fascist powers alone, in his view, nor could the latter hope to win a clear-cut victory. It would be a disappointing and inconclusive encounter—just no dice unless they can get us in. But, Captain Hart and many of his countrymen believe that if Uncle Sam were featured on their side in the advance billing, the Dead End boys of Europe would quit being tough, go back to work and give the world a chance to earn honest dollar and get a good night's sleep.

This country has perhaps more to learn from Captain Hart's brilliant military studies than from his conclusions as to our interests and obligations. When the brass hats take charge, with the start of war, the free press is usually the first casualty. It was the persistence of the free press tradition in England that allowed the young war correspondent's first criticism of the old von Clausewitz strategy of the old-fashioned war run by mentally arthritic generals, to filter through to the public. By the time they got around to clapping on the censorship, Captain Hart had powerful backing and he was declared in on high military councils. Some of the stuffy old generals tried to sink him, but he knew all the answers and stuck through to the end, charting much of the revised and modernized tactics without which the Allies might not have won.

His was the "battle drill" system, the "expanding torrent system" and the "indirect approach." This lad, then scarcely out of his teens, had studied military tactics since the days when he was in short trousers. From the annals of Scipio Africanus on, he traced the evolution of military techniques. He diagnosed a case of hardening of the arteries in the British military mind, and during the war there was no heavy-duty thinking going on without his participation.

Sharp controversy has already swept the country as to who should be included in the forthcoming issue of "famous" Americans, 10 of which will likely be released in 1939. The Post Office Department has suggested leading universities of the country be asked to help in the final decision.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

WASHINGTON—The retirement of Justice Brandeis, which provides the president another supreme court vacancy to fill, emphasizes the Roosevelt stamp that has been placed upon the courts of the country.

He has made three appointments to the supreme court already. Justices Black of Alabama, Reed of Kentucky, and Frankfurter of Massachusetts. Two of these really counted heavily in swinging the court in the Roosevelt direction, since they replaced a pair of justices, Van Devanter and Sutherland, who consistently voted against the New Deal.

Next in importance to the supreme court come the 10 circuit courts, the channels through which litigation from all parts of the country reaches the supreme court. There are 48 places on the circuit courts. Of these President Roosevelt has filled 2

Monroe and West Monroe Bound to Go Ahead!

DECENTRALIZATION of industry—both a modern evolution and a measure of national defense—means much for cities like Monroe and West Monroe. Large industry has found it more profitable to operate plants in various communities rather than to continue concentration in one. And moreover, the government is tactfully hinting to industrialists that, in case of war, it would be unwise for them to have all of their eggs in one basket.

Monroe and West Monroe have what industry requires—intelligent labor, good living conditions, abundant cheap fuel and every form of transportation. The smaller cities with such assets are now receiving more and more attention from industrialists.

Monroe and West Monroe, which have already established something of a reputation as industrial cities, are communities in which anyone, either employer or employee, can find happiness. They are healthy cities. They have more than ordinary educational advantages. The cost of living is reasonable. And, above all, they are friendly communities, places where any man or woman can find contentment.

Monroe and West Monroe possess an abundance of intelligent labor, men and women capable of turning their hands toward most any form of industrial operation. They are mostly of good, native American stock, the kind of people who believe in the American way of life and desire to lead happy, contented, useful lives. A large percentage are home-owners.

Monroe and West Monroe have every advantage cities their own size have and some advantages that larger communities would like to possess. Natural gas is the only one of their mineral resources that has thus far been exploited. They are at the source of electric power production in Louisiana. They have an abundance of the finest and cheapest fuel known to man. And besides being served by every form of transportation, including a river for slow, heavy traffic and a transcontinental airway for rapid transit, they are only 300 miles from the greatest southern seaport, New Orleans.

Moreover, Monroe and West Monroe are the hub of Northeast Louisiana. They are surrounded by numberless fine communities and extraordinarily rich farm lands. All contribute to the prosperity of Monroe and West Monroe. All of these factors are making the two cities important in trade and industry.

Monroe and West Monroe have a fine opportunity. Their foundation has been well laid. Their course is set. No one need ask whither. It is straight ahead. Monroe and West Monroe already have some industries. They already possess a fine trade territory and an unsurpassed section as a background.

We who live in Monroe and West Monroe are sold on the two communities. We know they are fine cities and that they have opportunities. What we need to do, however, is to sell their advantages to others.

We should strive to bring new enterprises to Monroe and West Monroe. While trying to interest the large ones, we should not overlook the small ones. Then, too, we should endeavor to improve our service to the surrounding communities and do all we can to assist the farmers of our trade area.

In other words, we should constantly be on guard to hold what we've accomplished while reaching out for more. And we should always keep in mind that continuous alertness on the part of communities is what results in growth and progress. The future of Monroe and West Monroe rests with each and every one of us.

Ninth Annual Mardi Gras Ball Given At Virginia Hotel By Mrs. Robert Layton

Pomp And Ceremony Feature Festivities

Harry Frazer, Jr., And Mary Frances Zeigin Serve As King And Queen Of Elaborate Occasion

The ninth annual Mardi Gras ball presented by Mrs. Robert Layton for members of her dancing classes was one of the most brilliant of any that have gone before.

This year's ball at the Virginia hotel was presented with considerable eclat, pomp and ceremony before a company of guests that packed the crystal ballroom.

Beautiful costuming was noted among the maskers who formed a grand march led by last year's king and queen, Herbert Land, Jr., and Miss Marilyn Bush. The ladies of the queen's court wore gorgeous costumes fashioned with long full skirts of rose colored marquisette embroidered in silver with tight-fitting basques of rose-colored lame. Plumes were worn and they all carried bouquets of spring flowers.

Members of the king's court wore rose-colored satin trousers with long tailed coats of blue satin and gold braid. They wore high plumed hats of rose and blue.

This year's king and queen, Harry Frazer, Jr., and Miss Mary Frances Zeigin, lovely daughter of Mr. George Zeigin, were preceded by members of the court and the maskers. The queen's costume was fashioned of silver marquisette with ruffled skirt and tight-fitting basques of silver cloth with high Marie Antoinette collar of silver studded with rhinestones. A mantle of silver lame fell from the shoulders and ended in a long court train. She wore a white wig and a tiara studded with flashing stones.

The king wore a handsome costume of white satin with a mantle of gold embroidery in variegated jewels and carried a scepter studded with rhinestones.

A floor show, featuring several of Mrs. Layton's talented pupils, was presented before the throne. Later the king and queen descended the throne and joined the dancers.

The throne at one end of the ballroom was strewed with Persian rugs and hung with black velvet curtains. Purple velvet covered the high-backed seat above which festoons of balloons in all the carnival colors were enmeshed. Floodlights illuminated the scene in a fascinating manner.

Confetti and serpentine were thrown high overhead by the dancers who forgot their dignity as the evening advanced. Their exuberance found an outlet in the jitter bug and the big rope.

Mrs. Layton, wearing a lovely evening model of two-toned blue, mingled with her pupils during the evening.

Among the maskers were Mary Lynn O'Kelly, Mary Ann Wilds, Jan Mosenfelder, Mary Anna Garlick, Martha Madden, Teddy Bernstein, James LeBlanc, Sue Dickard, Peter Jamerson, Betty Fernberg, Margaret Gamble, Jack Terzia, Billy Ensminger, Benny Hughes, Randolph Brown, Jr., Herbert Land, Marilyn Bush, Joan Boardman, Martha Clayton Kilpatrick, Basil Church, Jack Dillon, Flood Garrett, John Dutcher, Jean Flournoy, Barbara Faulk, Bill Funk, Theo Terzia, and Jack Easterling.

MONROE (LA.) MORNING WORLD

Miss Jane Terzia Becomes The Bride Of James Standley, Jr., On Saturday

Methodist Church Scene Of Ceremony

Nuptials Unite Two Well-Known Families; Couple Leave For New Orleans On Honeymoon Trip

Of paramount social importance and of interest to friends throughout the state was the marriage of Miss Jane Terzia, daughter of Mrs. Daisy Terzia and the late Mr. Theodore Terzia, and Mr. James W. Standley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Standley, Sr., at the First Methodist church, Saturday, February 25, at high noon.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. C. Scott in the presence of a large concourse of friends and a number of out-of-town guests. While they were being seated a pre-nuptial organ concert was rendered by Mr. Leon Hammont.

Palms and luxuriant woodwardia fern formed a verdant background for the ceremony and outlined the chancel rail where a row of pink primroses lifted their heads above the sweeping ferns. These beautiful flowers were also deftly arranged in the background, intermingling with palms and ferns.

The bride's two attendants, her sister, Mrs. Douglas Miles, matron of honor, and Miss Mary Jo Standley, sister of the bridegroom, who served as maid of honor, were beautifully frocked. Mrs. Miles was wearing a smart fuchsia colored Elegance model with Eton jacket and a black straw hat adorned with pink roses. Miss Standley was wearing a two-toned blue model with a short coat and a becoming hat of pastel blue. Both Mrs. Miles and Miss Standley carried small bouquets of flowers in all the springtime colors.

Mr. Standley was attended by Mr. Leo Montgomery, best man and Mr. Fred Cook, groomsman.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Fred Strong of New Orleans, wore a distinctive Arthur Weis model of honey beige with a smartly tailored, full length coat and a broad brimmed hat and all accessories of British tan. A corsage of bronze colored orchids completed the beautiful ensemble. For something old the bride carried the imported rose point lace handkerchief carried by her paternal grandmother on her wedding day.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's mother on Lover's Lane. Beautiful flowers adorned the reception suite where Mrs. Terzia, wearing a smart black model with printed green blouse and corsage of patent leather flowers in harmony with her ensemble, extended courtesies. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Standley, who wore a navy blue ensemble with navy accessories and a corsage of spring flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Standley are spending their honeymoon in New Orleans and upon their return will be at home to their friends at King plantation on the Milholland road.

The bride, member of one of Monroe's pioneer families and a young woman of culture and charm, attended Sullins college in Virginia. She is a popular member of the younger set. Mr. Standley, a prominent young planter, attended the Louisiana State university at Baton Rouge.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. Fred Strong, Mrs. T. A. Stenstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lutes, Mr. and Mrs. Blu Stenstrom, of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. William Glassell, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Bell and children, John and Virginia, of Shreveport. Three close friends of the bride, Miss Eleanor Colbert, Miss Roberta Neel and Miss Doris Reid, students at the state university, were also in attendance.

Of interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement made by Mrs. Edgar Souther Vawter of the marriage of her daughter, Miss Helen Harwood Vawter, to Mr. David Lewis Agnew, February 11.

Mrs. Marie Wamsley will attend the Southwestern Beauty show in Fort Worth, Tex., February 27-28.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hicks and two sons are now established in the J. J. Potts home on Island drive. Mr. Hicks is associated with the United Carbon company.

Friends will witness with exceeding regret the departure of Mrs. Thomas A. Pharr for her new home in Big Springs, Tex., where she will join Mr. Pharr who is associated with the American Railway Express and was recently transferred.

Mrs. Dick Ray of Memphis, Tenn., formerly Miss Ella Massengill of this city is the guest of her sister, Miss Lillian Massengill and other relatives in Fort Worth.

The marriage of Miss Ilo Jane Boyd and Mr. Andrew Pappas will take place at the First Methodist church Sunday, February 26, at 4 p.m. Friends are invited through this medium as formal invitations have not been issued.

Miss Beulah Strohm is convalescing at her home, 304 Louise Anne avenue, from recent tonsil operation, and will be glad to have her friends call.

Mrs. E. W. Cruse and Mrs. Sidney Walker returned home Friday from a visit with Mrs. Cruse's sister, Miss Ralph C. Wright of Greenwood, Miss.

Y. W. C. A. Home Is Busy Scene

The bright, cheery, spacious reception suite of the Y. W. C. A. is constantly the scene of club meetings. Last week was unusually busy at the "Y" with several clubs holding their meetings at this popular rendezvous.

One group in particular, members of the Art Appreciation club, recently organized in this city under the leadership of Mrs. H. R. Saenger, enjoyed a splendid program and formulated plans for future activities.

Other clubs meeting at the "Y" last week were the Girls Reserve club, the Welcome Branch Book club, the Business Girls' club and the Sophomore Girl Reserve club.

This week two new groups will be organized for work. The sewing class, with Mrs. Hollingsworth, will begin work at 4:15 p.m. This class is opened for any person interested in sewing.

Monday night at 7:30 a class in typing and shorthand will be opened for girls who work through the day and who want to study these courses. A nominal fee will be charged to pay the instructor, Miss Wilma Pace, a teacher of considerable experience.

Miss Calhoun Weds James Dallas Mays

Ceremony Performed February 17 At Home Of Bridegroom's Father At Winnsboro

A marriage of considerable interest due to the popularity of the contracting parties was that of Miss Adel Elizabeth Calhoun, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Calhoun of Ruston, and the late Mr. Calhoun, and Mr. James Dallas Mays, son of Mr. John Dallas Mays of Winnsboro and the late Mrs. Mays.

The ceremony was quietly solemnized February 17 at the home of the bridegroom's father, with Rev. Dana Terry, pastor of the Baptist church, officiating.

The bride wore a lovely spring tailleur with all accessories in perfect harmony.

Welcome Branch Book Club Meets

The Y. W. C. A. reception rooms were gayly decorated with spring flowers when Mrs. John C. Best, Mrs. Jefferson Henderson and Mrs. Paul Herron graciously entertained the Welcome Branch Book club.

After the business session presided over by the president, Mrs. J. R. White, the speakers were introduced. Mrs. H. V. Collins chose as her subject "The Southern Negro." She said in part: "This is a true story of old Aunt Missouri trudging across the flat woods to the white folks' house to make soap in the wash-pot in their big back yard."

"In the old days she wore many petticoats and a big red handkerchief around her head. Very important was the string she tied around her neck with a small ball of asafoetida used as a charm to keep off evil spirits."

The guest speaker, Mrs. Blanche Oliver, entertained with a group of humorous stories. As customary she was brought back again and again for an encore.

Aunt Nancy, big fat slave negro, liked to boss the white children and claim them as her own. She called them 'her babies' as long as they lived.

"On Sunday morning you could see Aunt Liza, or Mamie as the white children called her, after she had

MUSCULAR RHEUMATIC PAINS—ACHEs

It takes more than "just a salve" to bring speedy relief. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old soothing, warming Musterole to penetrate the surface skin and help to quickly relieve the painful local congestion and aches due to colds.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiff ness generally yield promptly.

Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. In three strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong, 4x. All druggists.

Epic Drama, 'Jesse James,' To Be At Paramount Saturday

Norma Shearer as a vaudeville acrobat and Clark Gable as a "hooper" is the unusual and exciting dramatic fare offered to Monroe screen-goers in "Idiot's Delight," playing today through Tuesday at the Paramount theater.

They loved to fight and fought for love in "The Storm," feature attraction playing Wednesday at the Capitol theater. The cast includes Charles Bickford, Barton MacLane, Preston Foster, Tom Brown, Nan Grey, Andy Devine and Frank Jenks.

Midnight Film To Be Given; Story Gripping

Carefully Selected Cast Will Portray Well Known Figure

DOWN in the Ozark mountains, where he once roamed, they still sing of Jesse James in melodies that have become part of America's folk songs. On summer evenings, after chores, bearded ancients can be found on every third back porch spinning yarns of Jesse's exploits to attentive groups of open-mouthed listeners. Tales of how Jesse James stopped the Glendale train, robbed the Northfield bank and shot Captain Sheets to the ground. Tales of how he robbed the Union Pacific, held up the state fair and raided the mall at Hot Springs, Ark. And then, as the hour grows late, the listeners depart singing the famous ballad which tells of the "dirty little coward who shot Mister Howard, and laid Jesse James in his grave."

No outlaw in history—not even Robin Hood—has so captured the romantic imagination of the American people as has Jesse James. Millions of words have been written about him; for the past fifty years he has been glorified in song; fiction has sprung up wherever his name has been mentioned; he has been forgiven, condemned, cursed and praised from one end of America to the other. And yet, when the heat of argument has cooled, they always come back to the same question they began with. "What sort of a man was Jesse James?"

Is it true that he murdered ten Union army soldiers in one skirmish? Was he really a fine family man, intensely in love with his wife and son? Did he steal from the rich and give to the poor? Was he kind to those he loved and cruel only to those he had reason to hate? Was he all bad or all good, or like most people, a little of both?

On a rainy Tuesday morning, almost two years ago, at a round table conference in the 20th Century-Fox studios, a group of ace scenarists submitted these questions to Darryl F. Zanuck in the hope that he, as Hollywood's foremost producer, would do something about them. He did. After a few moments deliberation he looked up thoughtfully and said, "We'll answer these questions, and make a picture based on our findings. It will be a complete and perfect picture of the most colorful outlaw that ever lived, and, above all, it will show him exactly as he was."

"Jesse James" will be shown at the Paramount theater in Monroe at a midnight show on Saturday.

Priscilla Lane and Wayne Morris, co-starred in "Brother Rat," hilarious movie version of the Broadway stage hit, plays today and Monday at the Capitol theater.

February 27, the last Sunday of the shortest month in the year. We will make up for it if you and your friends are present at Sunday school promptly at 9:45 a.m. The Baptist Training Union meets at 6:30 p.m. We are expecting at least 100 tonight. Everyone has a place to work and to be in training. All ages.

The pastor will use for his subject that famous old phrase, "Go Forward," for the morning service. We believe that God's clock has struck for advancement in religious work and that we can and will go forward if only we will be obedient to the voice of our Captain and Savior. The evening message will be an evangelistic message.

"Dog from the mountain side, washed in the glean."

Servant am I of the Master of men. Earn me I bless you; steal me, I curse you;

Grip me and hold me, a fiend shall possess you; Lie for me, die for me, covet me, take me.

Angel or devil, I am what you make me."

—Selected.

Water, water everywhere; And all the boards did shrink; Water, water everywhere; Nor any drop to drink."

Now we urge you to think with the poets upon these two philosophies of life and come and contribute your spiritual resources to these services. Let us pray and work for a great spiritual tide to fill our people everywhere with God's love and grace. We welcome all our friends and neighbors to all these services.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
Corner Auburn Avenue And North Second Street

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, February 26, 1939.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary; for thou hast found favor with God. And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name Jesus" (Luke 1:31).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "Jesus was the offspring of Mary's self-conscious communion with God. Mary's conception of him was spiritual, for only purity could reflect truth and love, which were plainly incarnate in the good and pure Christ Jesus" (pp. 29, 322).

p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate. Our Blessed Lord fasted 40 days without intermission; but while we endeavor to follow His Holy example, every 7th day is a blessed feast, like wells in the desert of Baca, lest we should faint by the way. Sunday is always a feast commemorative of the Resurrection, and the Sundays "in" Lent are not days "of" Lent, but they partake of the solemn and disciplinary character of the season. Let us go from Sunday to Sunday, halting on the first day of the week, then setting forward anew, with refreshed and stimulated aspirations, after that Heavenly Canaan towards which we are journeying.

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

The pastor will occupy the pulpit at both hours today, using as his subject at 11 a.m.: "The Fatherhood of God." At the evening service the subject will be: "The Filing Station." Our spring revival is announced to begin on the 12th (second Sunday) March. Prayer groups will be formed and personal work will be done preparing for the meeting. Subjects discussed at the regular worship services and also at mid-week prayer meetings will be along evangelistic lines. Rev. R. H. Hearn brought a helpful message last Sunday noon when the pastor was filling the pulpit at Clayborne church. Rev. Bill Mayo of West Monroe led the young people's services at the evening hour and also delivered a discourse to the congregation. Another new member was added to this church Sunday at 11 a.m., and some certificates of membership will be read at Gordon Avenue Sunday evening. The Sunday school will open at the usual time, 9:45 a.m., with E. K. Reeves, the general superintendent in charge. Dr. C. H. Mosely will deliver a lecture to the Men's Bible class. The two Epworth leagues will hold regular services at 6:45 p.m. The prayer-meeting next Wednesday evening will be lead by Stark Lambert.

We cordially invite one and all to come and worship with us. Come to the Sunday school and remain for the worship hour at 11 o'clock. There is an improvement in our singing since the organization of a choir. "Pray for the peace of Jerusalem: they shall prosper that love thee. Peace be within thy walls, and prosperity within thy palaces. For my brethren and companions' sake I will now say: peace be within thee." (Psalms 122:6-8.)

The pastor will use for his subject that famous old phrase, "Go Forward," for the morning service. We believe that God's clock has struck for advancement in religious work and that we can and will go forward if only we will be obedient to the voice of our Captain and Savior. The evening message will be an evangelistic message.

"Dog from the mountain side, washed in the glean."

Servant am I of the Master of men. Earn me I bless you; steal me, I curse you;

Grip me and hold me, a fiend shall possess you; Lie for me, die for me, covet me, take me.

Angel or devil, I am what you make me."

Now we urge you to think with the poets upon these two philosophies of life and come and contribute your spiritual resources to these services. Let us pray and work for a great spiritual tide to fill our people everywhere with God's love and grace. We welcome all our friends and neighbors to all these services.

COTTON STATES DIRECTORS MEET HERE TODAY

Sports
Chatter

By GEORGE V. LOFTON

NEW FACES
There'll be few familiar faces in the Cotton States loop this season. Monroe, which has a goodly number of last year's stars returning, will be about the only team that will look the same.

At the conclusion of the disastrous 1937 campaign, the Hot Springs Bathers announced that every man on the team would be sold, traded or released, and Prexy Adams has just about made good his threat. Everything's new at the Spas, including Conrad Hunter, the new skipper. Pine Bluff also announced a new deal, and the Judges, who changed managers toward the end of the '37 campaign, have cleaned house. Pine Bluff placed nine players on the reserve list but Business Manager Ed Smith will come to Monroe for the league meeting today with the avowed intention of swapping or selling all nine of the holdovers. So far the Judges haven't selected a manager.

Pine Bluff, incidentally, will work with the Brooklyn Dodgers this season. The Dodgers and Greenwood had a hook-up last year. This season Greenwood has effected an agreement with the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern association and will receive their players from the Crax. Manager Paul Richards of Atlanta opened a baseball school in Greenwood a couple of weeks ago but it folded after a week because of rainy weather. Cecil "Dusty" Rhodes, veteran infielder, is the new Greenwood pilot and there'll be an entire new roster there when the curtain rises in April.

Several holdovers will be retained by Greenville, where Jimmy Powell returns as manager, but there won't be many familiar faces. Likewise, Little Rock will send an entirely new cast to perform for Clarkdale, where "Cowboy" Jones takes over where Nemo Liebold left off last season. Helena also has cleaned house and so has El Dorado, where the abrupt Mr. O'Rourke will again direct the Lions afieid.

In contrast, some nine members of the 1938 champion Monroe club will report for spring training. And every one of these nine players played hang-up ball during that stretch drive for the flag. It would be silly to attempt to make any pennant predictions at this stage of the proceedings but it looks like the Sox will be able to place a good, experienced team on the field at the start of the race.

A PLEA

The Cotton States league will hold its annual schedule meeting here today. The league wisely chose Judge Emmett Harty of Greenville for its president during the coming campaign and today's meeting will be the first over which the capable judge has presided. A better selection could not have been made.

Far be it from us to tell the judge how to run his league but there's one suggestion we'd like to make. Please, Judge Harty, select an experienced man for your league statistician.

League records have been consistently balled up year after year. Keeping league statistics appears a simple task to most any man of average intelligence, but it isn't as easy as it looks. We know from experience; we tried it one year and, frankly, we weren't so hot.

League records were a jumbled mess last year. If any one player's record was correctly kept all the way through we didn't find it.

Experienced statisticians may be employed without going farther than Memphis Charley Miller, for instance, was Southern association statistician for years. Over in Dallas there's the Texas Statistical Bureau. Then there's the Howe bureau and the Elias bureau, statisticians for the American and National leagues, respectively. It's just as easy and almost as quick to send in the official scores to any one of those points as it has been to mail 'em to some point within the league.

We sincerely hope, for the good of the league, the players, the club owners and the sports writers, that Judge Harty will pick an experienced man for this responsible position.

FOXX DISENTS

Almost any baseball player you talk to will tell you that nobody will ever break Babe Ruth's home run record, but Jimmy Foxx, Boston's slugging first sacker, isn't one of them. We saw Foxx in New Orleans Friday and learned his views in that respect.

Jimmy pointed out that Hank Greenberg appeared to have the new record smashed last year but the pressure was too much for him. Hank had 58 homers to his credit and more than a week to go, but folded up. Foxx didn't say so, but indications from the firing line last fall were that Greenberg "choked up" when the chips were down.

Foxx, who won the American league batting championship last season, was once a mighty home run slugger himself. Now, he says, he's going in for singles and doubles, and as a result his batting average soared last year. All of which indicates that Mr. Foxx is growing smarter as he grows older.

SABIN NEARLY BEATEN IN NET CHAMPIONSHIPS

Davis Cup Hopeful Has Hard Time With Hartman In Indoor Tourney

By Sid Feder

YORK, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The seeded lists in the national indoor tennis championships were smashed twice in second round competition to day, but the upsets played only second fiddle to the one that almost happened—but didn't—to favorite Wayne Sabin.

Bill McGeehee, 19-year-old New Orleans youngster, who plays for nearby Scarborough school, and John H. Pitman, a lightly-redded New Yorkener, were the "upsetters" as the men's round swept past the second-round hurdle. McGeehee outlasted J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., veteran, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4, and Pitman surprised Frank A. Froehling of Chicago, 6-3, 6-3.

Before they clicked, however, the day's spotlight was taken and held by the stiff battle Sabin, the Portland, Ore., Davis cup hopeful and this tournament's ranking performer, was given by Leonard Hartman, an ex-soldier, Bonita, president of the rally association.

Coaches of the eight teams in the finals are: R. W. Atkins, Athens; girls, V. M. Robert, Harris girls; Leo Hartman, O. P. H. S. boys; P. C. Robert, Harris boys; A. C. Friday, Kilbourne girls; F. H. Holdeman, Enterprise girls; N. P. Brown, Weston boys; and K. C. Simmons, Calvin boys.

Results of semi-finals played at Tech Saturday morning were as follows:

Class B boys—Calvin defeated An-sley, 34-23, and Weston defeated Epps, 35-27.

Class B girl—Enterprise defeated Zwolle, 36-26, and Kilbourne defeated Columbus, 32-30.

In the consolation contests to determine winners of third places, scheduled for Saturday afternoon, Byrd High school of Shreveport defeated to Mangham in the Class A boys' division; Jonesboro and Bastrop both failed to play in the Class A girls' match; Zwolle defeated Columbus, 25-12, in the girls' B class, and Ansley defeated Epps, 20-18, in the boys' B class. Though the scoreboard showed a 20-18 victory for Epps at the end of the game, a check of the official score sheet revealed a tie of 18-18, and after both teams had left the floor an extra three-minute period was played to break the tie and eventual straight set verdicts.

Gregory Mangin, of Forest Hills, former four-time winner of the national indoor title, met unexpectedly tough going before overcoming Edward Jenkins, New York, 10-8, 6-2.

Double results included:

Eugene McCulliff and Clifford Sutter, New York, defeated Merritt Cutler and Fred G. Anderson, New York, 6-3, 6-1.

William McGeehee, New Orleans, and Joseph Fishbach, New York, defeated H. F. Rothenbach and Summer Rodman, New York, 6-2, 6-4.

Class A Basketball Title Won By Harris High Five

Claiborne Parish Quintet Defeats Ouachita, 27-16, To Claim Crown

RUSTON, La., Feb. 25.—(Special)—

Harris High school of Claiborne parish, rated as a "B" school on the basis of enrollment but conceded the privilege of playing in the Class A competition, trounced the favored Ouachita parish cagers of Monroe, 27-16, to win the Class A boys' basketball title of north Louisiana in the rally finals at Louisiana Tech Saturday night. The Harris boys came from behind an 8-9 score at the half to cap the championship.

The girls of Athens High school, also in Claiborne parish, won the class A crown for the fifth consecutive year by defeating the Harris girls, 36-12. Athens, as well as Harris, had requested permission to play in the top-notch division.

In a thrilling, hard-fought contest in the finals, the class B girls of Enterprise in Catahoula parish took the laurels by nosing out the Kilbourne sextet, 29-27.

Calvin won the class B boys' final by defeating Weston, 30 to 19.

At the conclusion of each of the final matches trophies were presented to winners of first and second place and individual basketball emblems to team members by J. A. Garrett, Bonita, president of the rally association.

Shoots Par-Shattering 68 To Take Command In $3,000 Open Tourney

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 25.—(AP)—

Dark haired Dick Metz, Kansas-born professional golfer ace from Chicago, shot a par-shattering 68 to take the first round lead today in the $3,000 Thomasville open tournament.

The 30-year-old Metz was one of nine players to crack par over the rain-soaked Glen Arden course. His four under standard figures gave him a one-stroke lead going into the final 36 holes tomorrow.

Another Chicago sharpshooter, John Bulla, set the pace for most of the day with an opening 69 and tall Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., winner of the big New Orleans open pure last week, came in late with a great finish to equal that figure. Picard finished in the rain with two birdies and an eagle on the last four holes.

Metz, winner here two years ago, played methodical golf most of the way to assume command, but he rolled in his share of good-sized putts in accumulating 14 pars and four birdies, he hit the cup with putts of 15 and 20 feet despite the downpour and on other holes chipped deadly.

Dawson had a few problems, of note, among them.

Replacing Warren Brunner, the great Tulane halfback, also filling the shoes of Billy Payne, dependable halfback; Ralph Bond, for three years a first-string quarterback, and also those of Bernie Smith, center, and Ray Miller, tackle, two of the first linemen the past two years.

Another problem was that of getting new candidates from the freshmen in shape to contribute their part on the major schedule for Tulane.

Among candidates to be out next week were:

Ends: Colom, Bodine, Wenzel, DeFrates; leftermen; McCarron, Brinkley, English, Comer, Mullin, Macmill, Reyer, Van Zandt, Lawton.

Tackles: White, Kirchen, McCollum, Brekke, leftermen; Bentz, Wilson, Du-four, Blandin, Stein.

Guards: Clay, Daily, Groves, O'Boyle, leftermen; Gentling, Bostic, Savage, Thomas, Burwick, Wohlbret, Owens, Wolf.

Halfbacks: Kellogg, Hays, Barker, Cassibry, leftermen; Vincent, Sims, Bob Glass, Richard, Ely, St. John Smith, Magruder, Smythe.

Fullbacks: Butler, Sauer, Gloden, leftermen; Abrams, Thibaut, Stern.

Quarterbacks: Krueger, Nyhan, leftermen; Tom Glass, Title, Grush.

Now, he says, he's going in for singles and doubles, and as a result his batting average soared last year. All of which indicates that Mr. Foxx is growing smarter as he grows older.

RELAY TEAMS AND DON LASH SHINE AT MEET

Glenn Wins 4th 1,500-Meter Title In A. A. U. Indoor Championships

By Bill Boni

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Two record-breaking relay teams, a brilliant hurdler and Don Lash combined tonight to force Glenn Cunningham into the background of the 51st annual national A. A. U. indoor track and field championships.

Before a roaring crowd of 14,000, Cunningham won his fourth 1,500-meter title in 3 minutes 54.5 seconds. But by the time the meet was over, the peerless Kansas triumph had been overshadowed by more startling events.

The 69th regiment A. A. of New York, with a relay team composed of Howie Borck, Dick Squire, Lou Parsons and Charley Beetham, chopped six-tenths of a second off the previous world record for 1,600 meters. Not only was Cunningham's 1,500-meter record broken, but the 1,600-meter record was broken.

Before the contests with the New Orleans ring men will officially close the Tech boxing season, Athletic Director Eddie McLane said that some consideration was being given to the possibilities of meeting the Centenary Gents to break a deadlock in four meets between those two colleges. If such negotiations materialize, the Bulldogs and Gents might stage the post-meet boxing show at Monroe probably on Friday night, March 3. McLane said: "The athletic director was awaiting an opinion on the matter from President E. S. Richardson who is attending a convention in Cleveland, O., this week-end."

In a meet with Loyola at New Orleans on January 18, the Techmen were defeated, five bouts to three. With several of the Bulldog leather pushers having shown improved form in recent matches, however, the Techsters are expected to give the Wolves a harder run for their money here Monday night.

Stellar Monroe Team Sets New Turney Record For Consecutive Wins

ALEXANDRIA, La., Feb. 25.—(Special)—Ouachita Parish High school girls won the Class A division of the 18th annual central Louisiana high school basketball tournament in the Louisiana college gym in Pineville tonight with a 34-to-15 victory over Jena.

Ruth Campbell, tall Ouachita forward, was the scoring star of the entire tournament. She made 31 of Ouachita's 34 points in the final game. The Monroe combination went into the lead from the start and never was in danger from the Jena attack.

This is the fourth consecutive championship for Ouachita, and a new record in the rally tourney.

Campbell and Ruth Goldman, both of Ouachita, were among those honored on the all-star Class A team selected by the judges in the tourney.

In the Class B girls' division, Good Fun defeated the Tioga team, 32 to 21, in the finals to win the first-place cup.

LeCompte Class B boys defeated the Bunkie quintet in the finals of the consolation tournament by a 34-to-33 score to win the second annual consolation cup, given the winner among teams eliminated in the first round of the central Louisiana high school meet.

Manresa downed Verda in the finals of the Class B girls' consolation tourney to capture the cup. The score was 19 to 12.

L. S. U. ELEVEN BEING FORGED IN SPRING PRACTICE

Drills To Continue Until March 18, When Intra-Squad Game Is Slated

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 25.—(Special)—The football team that will carry the colors of Louisiana State university into action next fall is being forged in the crucible of spring training.

Faced with the loss of ten lettermen, eight of them regulars, from the 1938 team, Coach Bernie Moore has been working 60-odd players hard since the spring sessions began January 26.

Daily workouts will continue until Saturday, March 18, when Coach Moore will end the spring's work with a full-time game between two evenly matched teams chosen from the squad.

Eight big gaps in the first team lineup of last fall must be filled during the present workouts. The nine seniors who will be lost by graduation are Dick Gormley, center; Blythe Clark and John Hugh Smith, guards; All-Southeastern Eddie Gaitor, Captain Ben Friend and Herman "Red" Farmer, tackles; Jack Gormley, end; Barrett Booth, quarterback, and Cotton Miller, right halfback.

Jabir Stell, the regular left halfback, last fall who had been counted on to furnish a lot of strength at that post next season, was lost because of scholastic difficulties recently.

Twenty-one lettermen will form the nucleus of the 1939 squad.

Lettermen and other 1938 squad members returning includes (L) denotes lettermen:

Centers: Gayle Monger (L), Francis Cassidy.

Juel Johnston and Froehnicht, sophomore reserves last season, were transferred to guard from tackle and end positions respectively. John Crabtree, a left halfback in '38, is at right or wingback now.

Promising candidates up from the ranks of the 1938 freshman eleven include the following:

VOLS BEAT GEORGIA TO END CAGE SEASON

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Tennessee's cage team closed its regular season tonight with a hard-earned 35-29 decision over the Southeastern conference-leading Georgia Bulldogs.

The Vols got the jump, running up an 8-1 lead before the Bulldogs found the basket from the floor. Kirkland and Kelly, however, soon got their sights adjusted and pulled the Bulldogs up to within one point of the Vols at the half, at which Tennessee lead, 18-17.

In the last half, close defense work by Tennessee's guards, Huffman and Jennings, nullified Georgia's offensive threats.

OUACHITA GIRLS WIN 4TH TITLE AT PINEVILLE

SON OF INSCO TAKES RACE BY HALF A LENGTH

Day Off Finishes In Third Place And Timewell Comes In Poor Fourth

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 25.—(Special)—Technician, like Lawrin, a speedy son of InSCO, probably assured himself the favorite's role in the Kentucky Derby when he outran and outgamed Volitant in the stretch to win the Flamingo stakes by a half-length at Hialeah park today.

Running comfortably in second place all the way around until they hit the final furlong, Technician came on the outside under a hard hand-ride by Ira Hanford to catch Volitant, ridden by Don Meade, about 50 yards from the wire and then slide past him with seeming ease.

The winner's time for the mile and a furlong was 1:50 1-5, well off the track and world record of 1:48 1-5 held jointly by Brevity and Stagehand, but fast enough considering a strong breeze in the field faced on the back stretch. He started a favorite and paid only $5 for his victory. Volitant, second in the betting, paid $3.70 to place. Volitant carried the silks of the Saratoga stable of George Bull and John Morris.

Mr. Payne Whitney's Day Off took third, a length and a half behind Volitant and six good lengths in front of the fourth-place Timewell. The others wound up in this order: Shambles, Chalmac, Easy Mon, Joharie and Get Off.

Eulace Peacock of the Shore A. C., Elberon, N. J., placed third to give negroes one-two-three at the finish

Perrin Walker of the New York A. C. was fourth.

Unpredictable Charley Beetham, former Ohio State star now running for the 9th Regiment A. A., made a runaway race of the last half of the 600-meter final to triumph by 15 yards over Howe Borch, his teammate, in 1 minute 21 1/2 seconds. Beetham, who often holds his kick until too late, elected to take over the pace-setting from Doug Raymond of the Boston A. A., with two laps to go, and just kept piling on the pace until it was obvious he couldn't be headed.

Like Tolmich and Thompson, Beetham also is a new champion. Behind him and Borch in a nose-and-nose finish for third came two other 9th Regiment representatives, Dick Squires and Lou Burns.

Joe McCluskey, the New York A. C., veteran who has won 18 national titles, appeared headed for his nineteenth until the bell lap of the 3,000-meter steeplechase. In the final whirl around the saucer and over the hurdles, he was caught and passed by Tommy Decker of Bloomington, Ind., who went on to triumph by five yards with a blistering "kick" that brought him into the tape in 8:49.4, eight-tenths of a second slower than his own world record set two years ago.

Promising candidates up from the ranks of the 1938 freshman eleven include the following:

Guards: Earl Paschal, Pete Ballis, and Ripper Williams.

Ends: Wade Stonecipher, Dudley Pillow and Jack Okes.

Halfbacks: Bill Reinschmidt, and Michael Dolan of Fordham, were badly distanced. Dolan was lapped twice as Decker and McCluskey fought out their private battle.

New York University, with Jim Herbert running a beautiful opening 400 meters but sided chiefly by a smart bit of baton-passing between the last two men, retained its 1,000-meter sprint medley relay title. The Violets' "A" foursome defeated the New York A. C.'s "A" team by two yards in a fast time of 2 minutes 5 tenths of a second.

Cornelius Warmerdam of the Olympic club, San Francisco, succeeded Dick Gansen of Columbia as pole vault champion by clearing 14 feet. The Lion ace, hampered by a recent injury, could do no better than 13 feet as Summer Gil of Boston A. A. took second at 13 feet 6 inches.

armistice move. A Spanish embassy spokesman said negotiations looking toward an armistice must be preceded by a statement of terms on which the proposal was made. He professed ignorance of any such approach by the British government.

The battle fronts in Spain were as quiet as though an armistice already had been declared. Not even an air raid was reported.

The Madrid government's acceptance of the "armistice" was said to have been decided at a cabinet meeting Friday and to have been message to Pablo Azcarate y Florez, the ambassador to London.

Government Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo conveyed it to Manuel Azana, government president, at the Spanish embassy in Paris. Azana recently has been an outspoken advocate of peace.

The report on the cabinet meeting which came from Madrid Friday said the ministers had discussed the capacity of their forces to resist further the superior nationalist war machine.

Negotiations to follow the end of hostilities, which have been virtually nonexistent since the fall of Barcelona January 26, it was understood, would be limited to fixing a means for Negrin and other government leaders to leave Spain.

It was believed by Spanish government officials here that nationalist occupation of the government zone embracing Madrid, Valencia and Alicante would follow a few days after the armistice.

This central area, embracing one-fourth of Spain, was all that the government had left after two years, seven months and one week of civil war.

The British government was believed to have agreed to pledge the performance of Franco's promises, because the generalissimo, true to his statements, has refused to treat directly with the government or to offer conditions for its surrender.

Azana, his aides said, would leave the Spanish embassy here Sunday afternoon, ending the last pretense to keeping his post as chief of the Spanish republic.

He was expected to issue a proclamation explaining his work for peace and announcing his resignation.

The Spanish embassy is to be evacuated Monday night and nationalist representatives are to move in Tuesday morning, it was said.

Spanish government representatives said the French and British governments had notified Alvarez del Vayo that their navies were ready to bring government leaders out of Spain.

The number seeking such evacuation was said to have been put by Alvarez del Vayo at 10,000. This would include all government chiefs and army, labor union, political and party leaders with their families.

Senator Leon Barden, French emissary to the nationalist capital at Burgos, crossed the frontier on his return to Paris. He is to submit to Premier Daladier the accords he has signed with the nationalists as a preliminary of French recognition of the national regime.

The premier, in turn, is expected to send them to the cabinet Monday, preliminary to French and British announcement of recognition.

Informed diplomatic circles had expected the quick collapse of the Spanish government.

that they went out together about 7:45. The man returned alone 45 minutes later, but left when his knock at Anya's door was unanswered.

Her partner in the skit was Wally Myar, 24, pianist and actor. When he did not find Anya backstage at 8 o'clock Myar went outside to look for her.

"I went out in front of the auditorium and stood there for a while," Myar told police. "Then I started to walk toward the street about 9:20.

"Suddenly I saw someone staggering toward me. I recognized the figure as Anya. As she came closer and I saw her face was bloody. She was sick. I grabbed her as she was about to fall."

"Nobody came to protect me—why didn't you come sooner?" she asked me. I asked her what happened and she said a man hit her on the head. She said someone asked her where she was going and as she turned something struck her.

"I picked her up and carried her into the janitor's room. I told Bob McLaughlin (another student) to tell Ann Stanley, the dramatic teacher, what had happened and to call an ambulance."

Miss Sosoyeva died early today of skull fracture, without regaining consciousness. Physicians said she had been criminally attacked.

Captain Dalton R. Patton of the homicide bureau found a blood-stained gray glove, a comb with blood on it, a bloody card on which something was written, and a heavy piece of wood—a by four, about three feet long—under a tree near where Myar first saw Anya.

Patton indicated the most important clue was the card, but he declined to divulge what was written on it.

Myar was questioned, but Detective William Clark said the man in whose arms Anya lapsed into unconsciousness was not involved.

Myar told police he was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1935 and that he then worked in Chicago as an advertising writer. He then became advertising manager of the Ripon, Wis., Press. He said he had written some songs and came to Hollywood last November in the hope of breaking into pictures.

CALCULATIONS OF REFUGEES UPSET

in London which was understood to include Chancellor Hitler's promise of a conditional truce with the Jews.

(The committee provisionally accepted the proposal, under which it undertook to try to remove 150,000 young Jews from Germany in the first year of the scheme's operation, and authorized establishment of a private international corporation to finance a five-year emigration plan at a cost of $300,000,000.)

The new order upsets all these calculations.

Jewish representatives insisted that at best it has been possible to obtain regular immigration visas or permits for England, Palestine and other places only at a rate of 3,000 monthly for all Germany.

Yet Berlin's Jewry alone, the Jews said, hereafter must send out 3,000 persons monthly aside from emigration from such centers as Vienna, Breslau, Frankfurt, Stuttgart, Dresden, Cologne and Hamburg.

Responsible Jewish quarters said they could produce 100 persons for the first three or four days from those whose preparations to leave the country were far enough advanced to make their departure within two weeks likely.

Beyond that they said they saw only tragedy.

Police authorities asserted that orders were orders and if a man on the dail list did not leave within a fortnight dire consequences would follow. But they did not disclose what these consequences might include.

The police notice provided that as soon as the 100 names daily are furnished the necessary deductions for taxes, the 1,000,000,000-mark ($400,000,000) fine levied on Jews last November after the death of Ernst vom Rath in Paris at the hands of a Polish Jew, the capital flight tax and a special levy for the support of aged Jews would be taken from the fortunes of the nominees.

They then will be handed their papers, bearing a large "J" (for Jew), and told to obtain a visa to some other country within 14 days.

It was estimated that there were 650,000 Jews in Germany when the Nazis came to power January 30, 1933.

A semi-official announcement today said 240,000 had left since then. However, the annexation of Austria added just about as many Jews to the Reich's population as have emigrated.

Of those remaining, about 200,000 are considered too old for emigration.

Spyrus count and two years on each of the felony charges.

Stryker said he would file an appeal as soon as possible.

The end of the trial came with unexpected suddenness. The jury had seemed uncertain, having come back into the courtroom for instructions three times before returning a verdict.

Their last question obviously showed they were weighing the testimony of three confessed Schultz henchmen who had testified against Hines—men whom the defense had scathingly denounced as confirmed perjurers. They were J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, the Schultz lawyer; George Weinberg, who committed suicide, and Harry Schoenhaus.

Evidently not expecting an early verdict, spectators had all but deserted the musty old courtroom in the criminal courts building.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, trying the most sensational case of a sensational career, nervously paced the corridors with his aides awaiting a verdict. He declared, though, he was confident of conviction—and he got it. It was Hines' second trial, the first having ended in a mistrial last fall.

CHRISTMAS NEAR HOUma OBSERVED

Bayou Du Large Scotch-English Trapper Folk Celebrate Yuletide

HOUma, La., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A brisk windchopped Bayou du Large 20 miles southwest of here today and fell from heavy skies, but in the little Episcopal mission of St. Andrew there was Christmas merriment, with holly wreaths and silver stars.

While the Christian brethren in other parts of the world observed the first Saturday in Lent, the Scotch-English trapper folk of Bayou du Large were celebrating Christmas.

It was their twelfth such fete. The calendar turned back two months to the day for them, because when the rest of the world has its Christmas members of the settlement are scattered among the bayous, trapping for muskrats.

Today close to 200 of them, who fish and trawl for shrimp in the Gulf of Mexico during the spring and summer, gathered at the mission.

In the one large room was a wax myrtle from a nearby knoll, decorated with tinsel and lights.

With the Rev. Skardon D'Aubert, rector of St. John's church in Thibodaux and director of the mission, presiding, the 200 sang "Silent Night" and recited the Lord's prayer. Rev. Mr. D'Aubert read the "Christmas story," taken from the second chapter of the Gospel according to St. Luke.

He bestowed his blessing upon the community and wished all a Merry Christmas.

Then, at a plain wooden stand with a bowl of water, he baptized 16-day-old Dolores Mary Lovell, newest arrival in the settlement, born on a houseboat to Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lovell just before the trapping closed.

Afterward the room broke into excitement as Christmas presents were given to all the children. Boys scampered with knives, baseball bats and toy automobiles. Girls held their dolls close and munched their candy canes.

The Scotch-English trappers who live in a string of houses for seven or eight miles along Bayou du Large are a mystery of southwest Louisiana. They have been there for four generations, it is believed. All are fair and blue-eyed and most speak with a drawl alien to the population of predominant French descent hereabouts, although they have intermarried with the Cajun trappers along the bayous.

"Most everybody along the bayou here is related," said Adam Dehart, who lives "next door" to the mission with his wife, eleven boys and two girls.

The older trappers recalled that their grandfathers were unfamiliar with fishing equipment and had to learn to travel for shrimp, but said they didn't know where their inland forebears came from.

Before the mission came, they had no particular religion, they said. St. Andrew's was founded in 1814. The Episcopal Diocese of Louisiana contributed to the annual February 25 Christmas party. It began 12 years ago.

JONES WOULD LIMIT COTTON HOLDINGS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Jesse Jones, Reconstruction Finance chairman, recommended to a Senate committee today that the government's cotton holdings be curtailed but left up to Congress the question of how it should be done.

He told the agriculture committee that he did not feel qualified to express an opinion on a method proposed in a bill by Chairman Smith, Democrat, South Carolina.

"You've got your congress, the department of agriculture and the tax authorities—one more cook wouldn't help," Jones said.

The RFC declared, however, that the government "should not continue piling up" the stocks of cotton it has acquired as security for loans to producers.

John Goodloe, vice-president and general manager of the commodity credit corporation, testified that the government now held 11,014,000 bales of such cotton, representing an investment of $560,000,000 and a net loss of approximately $44,000,000 at current prices.

AUTO MECHANICS TO GET DIPLOMAS

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Diplomas will be presented next week to automobile mechanics who have completed the first unit of study in the first advanced training course for mechanics held by the state department of education, according to W. M. Evans, assistant state supervisor of trade and industrial education.

Certificates, signifying the completion of the course in caburation problems, will be presented Monday night to 154 mechanics in Baton Rouge and on Tuesday night will be given to 139 mechanics in Alexandria.

These mechanics have met once a week for the past 12 weeks for instruction. The courses will be continued on different phases of advanced mechanics throughout the year, Evans said.

Classes will be organized in other Louisiana centers as rapidly as facilities are available, Evans said.

STAG PARTY PLANNED BY ENGINEERS' GROUP

The Northeast Center Engineering club will sponsor a stag party in the gymnasium Friday, March 3, at 8 p.m. The main event will be an exhibition boxing match between students of the club and other students now enrolled in the school.

NOTED COLUMNIST WRITES TO CLUB

Dorothy Dix's Life To Be Discussed By Tech Home Economics Groups

RUSTON, La., Feb. 25.—(Special)—Dorothy Dix, New Orleans columnist, whose life and work will be discussed at a joint meeting of the Louisiana Tech home economics club here next Wednesday, has written a special "column" of comment on Tech's school of home economics, in which she emphasizes the importance of training to be "good wives, mothers and home makers."

The noted columnist will be discussed by Evelyn Hemler of Minden and Carolyn Ford of Homer, members of the junior group of the home economics club at Tech, with the meeting to be held in the home economics building at 6:30 p.m. The public is invited.

"I assure you that I feel very much honored to be the subject of your next program and it gives me pleasure to write the enclosed," Miss Dix wrote.

Flush Kidneys Of Acid And Poisons

Gain In Health And Stop Getting Up Nights

When kidneys are continually overburdened they often become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns—sleep is restless and nights visits to the bathroom are frequent—safe, reliable and inexpensive way to relieve this trouble and help restore more healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get from your druggist a box of GOLD MEDAL Haaerlem Oil Capsules and take as directed—don't be disappointed.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Ask for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—right from Haarlem in Holland. GET GOLD MEDAL—the original—the genuine. Look for the Gold Medal on the box—35 cents.

Remember—other symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble may be backache, puffiness, eyes, nervousness and leg cramps. (Adv.)

to Miss Hemler. With the letter the columnist enclosed the following:

"I wish to send my very sincere congratulations to the home economics clubs of the Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and to express my appreciation of the great constructive work that it is doing; for I believe that the very highest education for women consists in preparing them for the career for which nature made them—being good wives and mothers and home-makers."

"I do not minimize the value of a college education, but it should be only the foundation stone on which a woman builds her house of happiness, by knowing how to feed her family, bathe the baby, balance her vitamins and budget her income. It matters little to a woman who has majored in chemistry if she does not know how to make good bread, nor to have taken an M. A. degree if she doesn't know what to do when her children cry for 'MA.'

"Bad cooking will blight the happiness of any marriage. The dregs in the coffee pot are the grounds for many a divorce. And the only reliable remedy for keeping a husband free-speech and religious freedom, if our democracy is to be preserved.

Attorney Thompson said, in part: "In these tragic days, when man's inhumanity to man makes countless millions mourn, when racial and religious groups are being oppressed and persecuted by ruthless and barbarian-like dictators, when the cherished ideals and institutions of democracy are being derided and definitely discredited, there is no enterprise of greater moment and importance than for men and women to meet together without regard to religious faith and creeds or race in understanding and helpful cooperation at the altar of true Americans and there re-consecrate themselves to the fundamental truths of the democratic way of living."

"To this common altar on Brotherhood day, Jew, Protestant and Catholic, with the best of traditions of each, can come and strengthen their will not only to preserve and maintain as a fundamental part of their social and political philosophies, but to observe in all their human relations the liberties of person and belief which the founding fathers proclaimed and which we know to be the very essence of democracy as America has conceived it. To this common altar, the three major religious groups can come without compromise of their distinctive principles and creeds, and cooperate in the tasks that belong to them as citizens of a common country.

"And why should not Jew, Protestant and Catholic come to this common altar? Do we not have the challenge of the old Bible? Have we not one Father? Hath not one God created us?

"Civil and religious liberty with the rights and privileges that are associated with them are not the gift of any single strain in our population. Protestant, Catholic and Jew have contributed to their establishment and each has been found since the beginning of our history among the most stalwart champions and defenders. Their present success is thus the result of a sound apprenticeship.

The complete program was as follows:

BROTHERHOOD IS GIVEN EMPHASIS

All Local Denominations Gather To Hear Address By M. C. Thompson

An appreciative audience comprised of all denominations, Jews, Catholics and Protestants, assembled in a mass meeting at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium Friday night to observe "National Brotherhood day."

The Monroe Kiwanis club was sponsor.

An address by Attorney M. C. Thompson on "Religious Freedom, Our Priceless Heritage," featured the program. In his talk he stressed the need of common brotherhood which should ever be alert to forestall movements that might tend to curb free speech and religious freedom if our democracy is to be preserved.

Attorney Thompson said, in part: "In these tragic days, when man's inhumanity to man makes countless millions mourn, when racial and religious groups are being oppressed and persecuted by ruthless and barbarian-like dictators, when the cherished ideals and institutions of democracy are being derided and definitely discredited, there is no enterprise of greater moment and importance than for men and women to meet together without regard to religious faith and creeds or race in understanding and helpful cooperation at the altar of true Americans and there re-consecrate themselves to the fundamental truths of the democratic way of living."

CLASSIC DRAMAS WILL BE GIVEN

Shakespearean Plays Scheduled By Talented Players At Northeast Center

Announcement has been made at Northeast Center to the effect that the James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce company, Shakespearean players from New York City, will appear at the college auditorium twice on March 6. This same company appeared in Monroe in 1937 when they presented "Macbeth" before enthusiastic audiences.

The purpose is said not to make money but to afford the community opportunity to attend a high grade Shakespearean presentation.

This year the company will give two dramas. There will be a matinee performance of "Julius Caesar" and a night performance of "Hamlet."

M. Hendrickson and Miss Bruce will have in their supporting company such well known players as King Francis Janssen, John Ritchie King Donovan, Katherine Cody, J. Allen Hamilton, Vernon Marvel, Nicholas Smith, Martin Wells and others.

Mr. Hendrickson and Miss Bruce headed their own company for 11 years, have established themselves as among the foremost interpreters of the classic drama on the American stage. Before organizing their own company, each of them had appeared on Broadway in productions of modern plays and also in the classics in support of Robert B. Mantell and Fritz Leiber. Their present success is thus the result of a sound apprenticeship.

The new club will hold meetings every second Thursday of the month at the Phi Kappa house in Cole addition. A barbecue is planned at the F. T. Smith camp today.

Phi Kappa was organized 13 years ago and has become one of the more prominent groups of its kind in the city. It owns its own clubhouse. Several important dances are held each year.

It is expected to have a large membership among the older members in the club that has just been formed.

The council of the Baptist Student union of Northeast Center has arranged to present Mark Roberts of Shreveport as guest speaker for the monthly meeting to be held at the college on Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. J. Norman Coon will also participate in the program with a vocal selection.

Mr. Roberts is the secretary of student affairs for 12 colleges in the state. He supervises the printing of the "Louisiana Baptist Student" and other material regarding students and their religious activities on the various campuses.

The Baptist Student council will initiate the preparation for its annual spring installation banquet at which the new officers for the coming school year, 1939-40, will be introduced. The council is planning to invite several well known student secretaries from the various parts of the state, and it is hoped that one of the national secretaries will attend. The purpose of these banquets is to help the freshman class which will replace the sophomores to become better acquainted with their executive staff, sponsors and officers with whom they will work as leaders of the new freshman class.

Houses Built In Previous Years Continue To Be In Demand, Figures Show

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 25.—(Special)—Houses built in previous years continue to be in demand by Louisianians, according to figures just compiled by the Federal Home Loan bank of Little Rock. The bank's monthly report of the lending activities of the 67 insured homestead and savings and loans associations in the state shows that loans totaling $446,628 for the purchase of existing dwellings were made by the associations in January. During the past 12 months the loans for the purchase of homes have been well in excess of a half million dollars per month, having aggregated $6,550,000 for the entire year of 1938. Proceeds of approximately half of all the loans made by the Louisiana insured associations in the past year were used for the purchase of homes.

Officials of the bank stated that home seekers in Louisiana apparently appreciate the sound construction of the older dwellings and realize the good value existing in them today.

Included in the compilation prepared by the bank are the figures of the First Federal Savings and Loan association, the Monroe Building and Loan association and the Peoples

Homestead and Savings association in Monroe, whose shares are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation.

In addition to the loans for the purchase of homes, the Louisiana insured association in January made 153 loans for the construction of new dwellings totaling $495,000. Continued activity in home building and remodeling is anticipated during the next several months. Architects and building contractors, the bank stated, are receiving an increasing number of inquiries from home seekers who seem desirous of taking advantage of the liberal home-financing arrangements now available.

Ferd Levi Stationery company, 107

DeSiard street, now has a complete service department in connection with its Remington Rand sales agency. It is under the supervision of Guy Wilson, manager of the office machinery department.

Establishment of the service department puts the company in a position where it can offer competent service on all makes of typewriters, adding machines and check writing devices.

Besides being factory trained and possessing an engineering education,

Mr. Wilson has had 12 years of practical experience in servicing office machinery.

Originally of Dallas, Tex., Mr. Wilson, whose training in office machinery repairs dates back to his high school days, came to Monroe from

New Orleans where he was associated with the Remington Rand, Inc.

Since taking over the service department of the stationery company,

Mr. Wilson has started equipping it with the latest tools and devices for repairing typewriters, adding machines and check writers. The department has a complete stock of replacement parts for all makes of office machinery.

Mr. Wilson specializes in overhauling, rebuilding and reconditioning all makes of office machines to factory specifications. Such jobs are fully guaranteed by Mr. Wilson.

were organizers of this fraternity years ago and who have not been so active in the group of late years, as

FLYING TALONS

AS MARSADA COMMANDED BUTANO TO FIRE, TARZAN PLUNGED FORWARD IN A FLYING LEAP.
BUTANO WENT DOWN. THE RIFLE FLEW UP. THE BULLET CRASHED HARMLESSLY INTO THE TREES.

THE APE-MAN WHIRLED TO LINDA. HE KNEW MARSADA WOULD LOOSE HIS VENGEANCE ON HER IF SHE REMAINED.

SO TOSSING HER LIGHTLY TO A SHOULDER, HE SPRANG TREEWARD, AND SPED AWAY INTO THE FOREST.

LINDA CLUNG CLOSE,
MORE THRILLED THAN FRIGHTENED BY THE BREATHTAKING FLIGHT.

WHERE HE WAS TAKING HER SHE DID NOT KNOW, NOR DID SHE CARE, SO LONG AS HE REMAINED WITH HER.

WHEN AT LAST
THEY HALTED, TARZAN
WOVE A BROAD HAMMOCK OF VINES FOR LINDA'S BED.

JUST AS HE STARTED
TOWARD A HIGHER BRANCH TO STAND GUARD OVER THE GIRL, HE PAUSED, SNIFFING THE AIR.

HIS EYES DARTED UPWARD---TO MEET THE FIERCE FLASHING EYES OF A LEOPARD!

LINDA GLANCED UP TOO.
SHE SCREAMED. THE GREAT CAT, EXCITED BY HER CRY, SPRANG AT HER.

IN A FLASH, TARZAN
SHOVED HER ASIDE---- AND HIMSELF RECEIVED THE FULL FORCE OF THE LEOPARD'S PLUNGE.

TOGETHER THEY TUMBLED
EARTHWARD, BEAST AND BEAST-MAN, IN A
TANGLE OF TALONS
AND HUMAN FLESH!
